Class Prophesy

I am King Neptune, king of the underworld! I am the great king who knows all! At the present time I am seated on my throne, gazing into the future of the class of 1946.

Come! Journey into the future with me and see what has happened to all of our fine friends. Ah, yes! There is Club '46, situated in the heart of Chicago. Frank Sullivan, the doorman, has the pleasure of welcoming the first guest of the evening, who is none other than the former Georgia Blett, who is accompanied by her three little kiddies, all dressed in their daddy's old sailor suits!

And what delicious food is served here! No wonder! It has been cooked by the head chef, Rodney Finkbeiner.

Ah! At last! The floor-show is about to begin. Entering the spotlight is Moe Goudzwaard, master of ceremonies, who begins the program with a few of his great tricks.

Hark! A band we hear! Could we be mistaken? No, it is Astrid Johnson with her famous accordian swing band! And stepping into the limelight we see little Midgie Hudson, who is to sing in her low sultry voice "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here!"

Then we see coming out on the stage the world famous ventriloquist, Shirley Holly, accompanied by Danny, the dummy.

Then something else attracts our attention! Yes, it is our two old friends Iris Melvin and Dorothy Smith, now famous Powers models. They are wearing the latest in evening gowns, designed and created by the well known fashion designer, Orlando Parish. But who is that following them in? Can it be — yes, it is Donald Van Dyke, carrying Dorothy's long blonde(?) hair in a train.

Just then we see a pretty ankle approaching!

Looking up, we gaze into the face of Ruth Udell, the pretty cigaret girl. "Chesterfields? Here you are, sir," is the familiar chant.

Well, the time is rapidly flying by and it is time for us to leave Club '46. Donna Batt, the little hat check girl, gives us our hats as we take our exit. Hailing a taxi-cab, we hear the words "Where to?" and realize the driver is none other than Pat Haynes. As we stop for a red light (Pat's changed), Glenn Ihrig, the newsboy, brings us the latest edition of the Chicago Tribune! What a paper! After taking a quick glimpse through it, we find that Norma Heyboer has been doing a fine job as editor-in-chief. Evidently the Comet experience has done her some good! The pictures too are very clear! Oh, now we understand why! They were taken by the chief photographer, Bernie Long.

Oh! We've stopped again! And the place we visit next is the famous Zevalkink Sports Arena. What a crowd! I wonder who they're waiting for! Here comes someone now, shoving his way through the crowd. We recognize him as Bill Doot, the famous prize fighter. We knew those shoulders would get him somewhere!

Well, we must be on our way again! We pass many buildings, whose owners' names we recognize, but we do not have time to stop at each place. There is the famous dance studio, owned by Madame de la Beunk; the B. F. & N. Bakery, owned and operated by Donna Bergin, Barbara Forney, and Louise Noorman; the Steitzer Art Studio; and the little grocery store on the corner, owned by Jean Sybesma.

What's this? Can it be? Yes, it is the Chicago Roller Rink, which has recently been purchased by Alma Mekkes. Now she can go skating every night instead of only four times a week!

We see that Alice de Bruyn, Frances Bass, Bernice Fennema, Arlene Marshall, and Phyllis Mc Millan are happy secretaries at Marshall Field's. How intrigueing!

As we enter the Jean Miller Opera House to hear Arthur Schleh give his first debut as an opera star, we see that Dale Sweet has also just seated himself in one of the box seats. He still wears a uniform! Never thought he'd make the army a career!

Well, we will only have time to make one more stop before we leave. Where shall it be? The rodeo? Alright! Oh! No wonder you wanted to come here! Donna Hooper, the famous bronco-rider is taking part in the show! That should be very interesting!

My! How quickly the time has passed. It is nearly time for the milkman to make his daily rounds! Yes, here he is now — Bill Bloomer in person. I thought he'd given that up!

And now the time has come for me to return to the depths of the sea! I am very glad that you could join me on this little excursion. It has been an enjoyable evening, hasn't it? We should do this more often! How about that?

Class Will

We, the Senior Class of Kelloggsville High School, being of sound mind, memory, and understanding, and being physically fit, do make, publish, and declare, the following, our last Will and Testament.

ARTICLE I

A. We give to the Juniors our dances and our hayrides.
B. We give to the Sophomores our quiet, dignified, and orderly class meetings.
C. We give to the Freshman Class our love for parties and good times. (More power to you!)
D. We give to the Eighth Grade the power to carry on four more years.
E. We give to the student body as a whole, our sense of humor, our appreciation of Kelloggsville, and our best wishes for a successful and memorable future.

ARTICLE II

1. To Mr. Chambers we leave a new Senior Class to worry about.
2. To Mrs. Peters we bequeath the office telephone as we are through with it now.
3. To Mrs. Heitbrink we leave a hope for a happy future.
4. We leave to Mr. Formsma a new crop of little "deers" and money, because, "You'll never get rich by working."
5. To Miss Crapple we leave a new sense of humor as we have wrecked her old one.
6. To Mrs. Hook we bequeath a complete understanding in return for the understanding she has given us.
7. To Miss Wray we leave another annual staff to help, and go mad over.
8. To Mrs. Greenwald we bequeath our wholehearted cooperation (at last) and our ability to stick together.
9. To Mr. Tyler we leave our quiet session halls and class room.
10. To Mrs. Chivers we bequeath our mutual love of the Arts.
11. To Mrs. Meyer we leave a pair of ballet slippers, a new make-up kit, and a rich vocabulary.
12. To Mr. Ten Dyke we leave the patience to carry on with the Orientation Class and the "patients" to take on field trips.
13. To Mr. Anderson we bequeath more blockheads to work with.
14. To Mr. Vander Molen we bequeath our unlawful library permits.

15. To Mrs. Sachen we bequeath an even sweeter personality.

ARTICLE III

1. I, Frances, Bass, will not leave Pete, as I want him myself.
2. I, Donna Batt, bequeath my dimples to Jeannette Bass.
3. I, Donna Bergin, leave my square-shooting to Laurie Sheltema.
4. I, Georgia Blett, leave my shy voice to Criscilla Breen.
5. I, William Bloomer, leave my school-boy complexion to Ted Conrad.
6. I, Dorothy Beunk, leave my graceful walk to Marcia Grit.

8. I, William Doot, leave my clubby black Ford to Mr. Ten Dyke.
9. I, Bernice Fennema, leave my charming manner to Pat Boyd.
10. I, Barbara Forney, bequeath my good patience to the eight-grade session room teacher.
11. I, Rodney Finkbeiner, leave my tardy excuses to Marcia Udell.
12. I, Maurice Goudzwaard, bequeath my literary collection to anyone who finds time to mend the worn pages.
13. I, Pat Haynes, bequeath my dry sense of humor to Delores Wells.
14. I, Norma Heyboer, leave my love for the Navy to June Grienke.
15. I, Shirley Holly, bequeath my studious way to Chuck Miller.
16. I, Donna Hooper, leave my big brown eyes to Barbara Bronkema.
17. I, Amelia Hudson, leave my will-power to Shirley Kelly.
18. I, Glenn Ihrig, bequeath my sports ability to Harold Hansen.
19. I, Astrid Johnson, leave my friendly smile to Art Schneider.
20. I, Bernard Long, leave my beard to Jay Kossen.
21. I, Arlene Marshall, leave my absence excuses to Bob Goudzwaard.
22. I, Phyllis McMillan, bequeath my ambition and earnestness to Bob Finnie.
23. I, Alma Mekkes, leave my ability to stay out late to Delores Howe.
24. I, Iris Melven, bequeath my ability to get 'em and keep 'em to Shirley Immel.
25. I, Jean Miller, bequeath my even temper to Don Hoffman.
26. I, Louise Noorman, bequeath my willingness to oblige people to Charlotte Roberts.
27. I, Orlando Parish, leave my wavy locks to Roger Bartz.
28. I, Arthur Schleh, bequeath my way with women to Govert Breen.

35. I, Donald Van Dyke, bequeath my shyness to Tink Farrow.
36. I, John Zevalkink, leave my knack of arguing to Roylene Martin.

Signed,

SENIOR CLASS of 1946.

Class History

The past of the sharks at Kellöggsville High School is very interesting. As minnows they came into a school composed of various types of underwater life.

So astonded were they by their new environment that they were put under the direction of Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. Greenwald. As they were just getting their bearings, the little minnows did nothing outstanding that year.

The minnows grew rapidly, receiving their first thrill while going over the falls into their freshmen year. Being recognized for the first time by the rest of the underworld, they became known as the sunfish of Kelloggsville High School. Under the guidance of Miss Wray and Miss Eikenhout they aided the Red Cross Victory Book Campaign and the library staff by collecting old magazines.

As they floated on their shining backs into their sophomore year, they were full-fledged "cuttlefish." That year they remained under the direction of Miss Wray and Miss Eikenhout. They entertained the school with a box-social during the course of the year.

In their Junior year, as salmon, they swam up stream accompanied by Mrs. Hietbrink and Mrs. Spaude and Miss Verano, to give skating parties and the Winter Whirl. They received their class rings and pins to decorate their fins and gills.

During their last year of school, they were under the leadership of Mrs. Hietbrink and Mr. Formsma, they were known as sharp sharks. They entertained the underworld with their dances, and hay rides. The big thrill of the year came when they made their long journey down Lake Michigan to Chicago. After a whirl of the big city they returned to publish their Century. Their course was completed in the spring of 1946 and the little fish swam beyond into the world of the unknown.

Treasurer	Margaret Brozovich

One of the main projects of Troop 56 this year has been the attempt to put a well in Hiawatha Trails. This hasn't, as yet, been successful.

Several overnight hikes were taken by the troop and new tents were purchased.

Many new boys joined Troop 56 this year from the Cub Scouts.

Seated: E. Sybesma, E. Nelson, H. Meredith, D. Batt, A. de Bruyn.

President	Donna Batt
Secretary	Eleanor Nelson
Treasurer	Ella Sybesma

Honor Society

The Honor Society began the year with four members. The first meeting was held for the purpose of electing officers. Preparations were made for the initiation of new members. Near Thanksgiving they were given ribbons indicating that they had earned the privilege of becoming Honor Society members.

At the beginning of the second semester new officers were elected. The project for the team was the selling of "occasional cards" which proved to be a lucrative one.

Standing: Mrs. Hook, T. Visser, J. Dieterman, D. Batt, A. Johnson, C. Hardenbol, B. Vander Meer, L. Jacoby.

President	Iris Melven
Vice-president	Ruth Udell
Secretary	Jean Sybesma
Librarian	Pat Haynes

Library Staff

The library staff was under the direction of Mrs. Heitbrink the first semester, and Mr. Vander Molen the last semester.

They aided in checking of books, and library work in general, as last year.

Standing: M. House, S. Zue, J. Dieterman.
Seated: A. Hussey, B. Vander Meer, Mrs. Hietbrink, M. Creamer.

Student Council

The Student Council got really under way this year with the forming of a new Constitution. It was submitted to the Student body with wholehearted approval. The problems of tardiness and crowded halls were also solved by this organization. Anyone tardy three times is ordered to stay after school. Hall monitors were also stationed in the halls to solve the hall situation.

First row: D. Wing, D. Sweet. P. Haynes, D. Johnston, G. Doxtator.
Second row: Mr. Chambers (advisor), V. Yerrick, B. Fennema, B. Swart, A. Schlch, G. Shippy, G. Carpenter, P. Bigham.

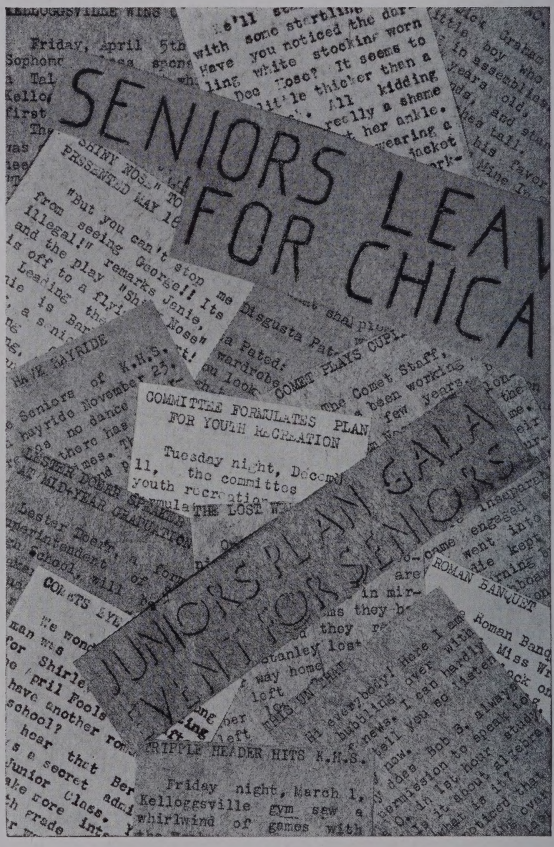
"A bigger and Better Paper" was the motto of the K.H.S. Comet Staff this year. The staff has been experimenting to make our paper with more originality. It is also striving for improvement in both the appearance and content of this semi-monthly newspaper.

Although the class was smaller the second semester, the students co-operated and very successfully edited an extraordinary paper. Remember the assembly and how the first publication was eagerly awaited by all?

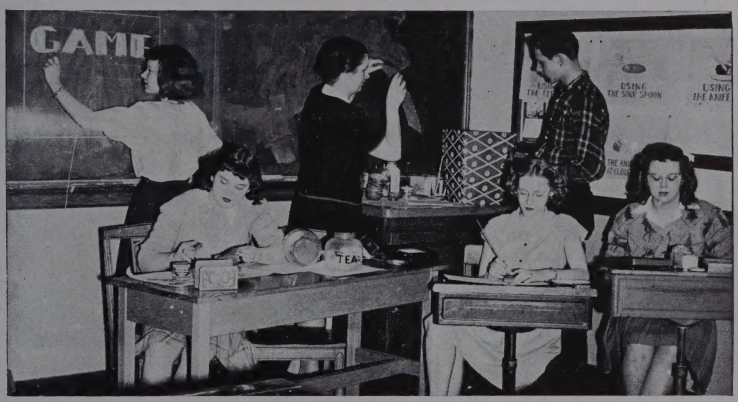
A small staff required much more and harder work, and each person put forth his best efforts to publish the paper.



D. Thayer, B. Bronkema, A. Hussey, I. Melven, P. Hansel, E. Sybesma.

Ballet Class

A new type of dancing class was introduced at K. H. S. this year. The ballet class, under the supervision of Mrs. Meyer was very successful. They high-lighted the year by presenting their recital in April. Several types of dances were taught to the girls, including Spanish, Russian, and Irish. Each student received a full credit for the course and also a neat figure! Have you noticed?



B. Steitzer, G. Wagner, Mrs. Chivers, S. Zue, T. Huizenga, S. Rockwell.

Art Class

The art class was composed primarily of members of the art club. They worked together aiding classes in advertising and making posters for "Shiny Nose", the Talent Parade, and senior dances. We express our deep thanks to you—the members of the art class. What would Kelloggsville have done without you?

Shop

E. Smith, B. Pelton, D. Schneider. W. Finkbeiner, R. Walters, B. Hendriksen.

This is the first year that shop work has been offered at Kelloggsville. A new building was brought from Grayling as a place where the boys could work. Under the direction of Mr. Anderson, the shop class has become acquainted with tools of the school and home workshop. A keen interest was shown by all in this new program. The boys would like to thank Mr. Anderson for this work.

Although they were handicapped by lack of efficient equipment, the fellows have shown fine cooperation and have accomplished the foundation of the first shop at Kelloggsville.

Debate

D. Gardner, D. Johnston, V. Yerrick, Mr. Tyler, T. Visser, E. Nelson, D. Hoffman.

"Should there be Compulsory Military Training?" This question was settled in the affirmative by six members of the debate class.

This was their first debate of the year and therefore introduced another spoke into the wheel of Kelloggsville's activities.

Football

This year Kelloggsville's football team underwent a very discouraging season.

For the first time in seven years the Barkenall Trophy was lost. It was lost to a very deserving Caledonia eleven.

In spite of the failures, we still consider the team a success. Knowledge is gained through failures.

Basketball

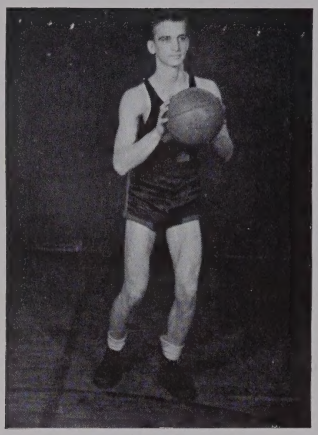
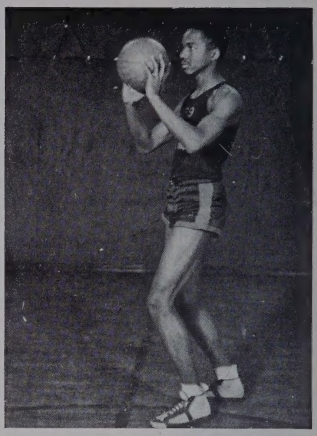
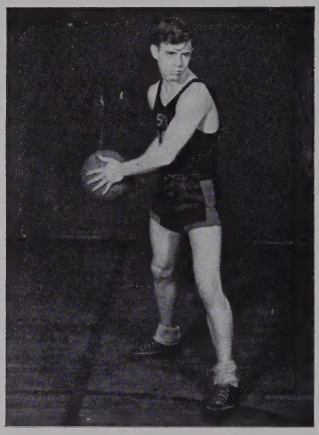
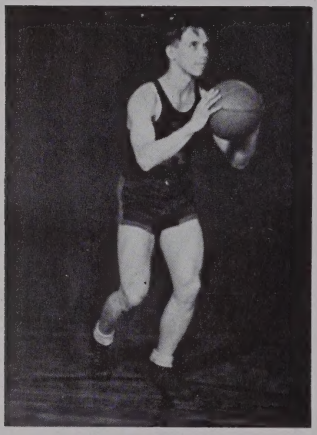
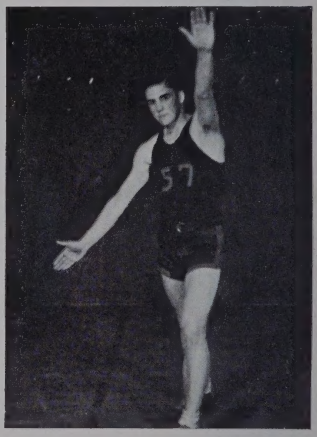
Although the team was left poorly equipped at the mid-semester with the loss of Doot, Goudzwaard, and Sweet, they rallied to win several games in the tournament. With typical determination, the team fought against greater odds to come out at the end of the season more experienced players.

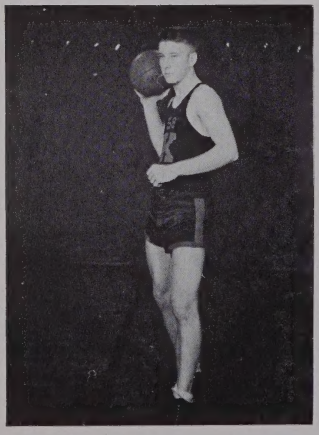


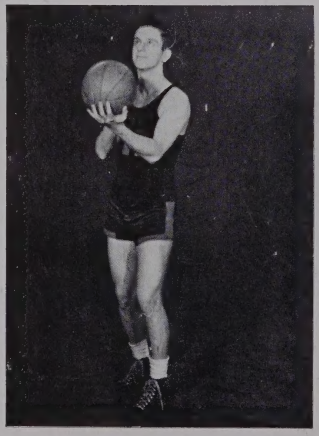












CHEER LEADERS

Standing: Pat Hansel, Shirley Kelly, Shirley Delano.
Bottom: Eleanor Nelson, Delores Howe, Diane Johnston.

Four new cheerleaders, Diane Johnston, Shirley Delano, Pat Hansel, and Delores Howe were introduced this year to work along with two former ones, Eleanor Nelson and Shirley Kelly. New yells were introduced, new uniforms were received, and all in all, they were a success with the student body.

Annual Staff

Now that you have a chance to view the 8th annual production of the Century, we hope you have enjoyed reading its pages as much as we have enjoyed preparing it for you. A production of this type includes many more difficulties than you, as readers, would expect. However, we wish to acknowledge the cooperation of all who made it possible for us to give you this annual —that is, the faculty, students, and patrons.

Listed below are the seniors who have assisted in the making of this annual. Several of these have spent many hours working in order to meet the deadline of the 1946 Century.

"A PHOTOGRAPH . . .

Is a Link in the Chain of Memory"

After graduation, classmates drift apart . . . the eye of memory grows dim . . . and a personality is lost forever . . . Unlesss that personality was captured in a photograph.

As your class photographers, we are proud to have forged the links in your memory chain, and we take this occasion to offer our sincere thanks . . . And Congratulations!
